Bucknall=cum=Bagnall.

Bucknall-cum-Bagnall was carved out of the large parish of Stoke-on-Trent in 1807, and consists of the hamlets of Bucknall, Botteslow, Bagnall, and Bucknall Eaves, in the North-Western division of the county, the North Pirehill hundred, the rural deanery and archdeaconry of Stoke-upon-Trent, and the diocese of Lichfield. The village of Bucknall has a station on the Stoke and Leek branch of the North Staffordshire railway. Bucknall is an ancient Chapelry. One of the earliest references to it so far discovered is in the Will of Thomas Adams, of the parish of Stoke-upon-Trent, proved at Lichfield 23rd November, 1536, who left "12d. to Buckenhall Chapel."¹

In 1563 Bucknall is described as a Chapel of ease with Cure.

A list of the Curates and Rectors is as follows:—

BUCKNALL.		BAGNALL.

According to Walter Chetwynd,³ Buckenhall "20 Conq. was in the King's hands, Chetell held it before, and not long after Ormus, and, by decent from him, a part of it came to Hawisia, ye wife of Hen. de Verdon, who were both benefactors to the Monks of Hilton [Hulton Abbey]—he giving them certain lands here, and she giving liberty to make a pool-dam upon her lands in Buckenhall lying near to the Abbey." Ward states that Ubbeley Hall in the township of Bucknall was formerly owned by Bertram de Verdon temp. Henry ii. (the founder of Croxden Abbey) and that Elizabeth, Lady Burwash, daughter of Theobald de Verdon, gave her lands in Bucknall to Adam de Buckenhall temp. Edward iii. Thomas Bokenhall was principal landowner in 22 Henry VI. In 1621 John Adams, of Byrcheshead, in Burslem parish, purchased a part of Bucknall from Ralph Bucknall, and his immediate descendants secured a larger part; while one branch of the family dwelt at Bucknall Hall alias "The Big Haise," for several centuries. In the 19th century much of it was acquired by Mr. John Sparrow, of Newcastle-under-Lyme and Bishton, and his daughters in Ward's day were the Ladies of the Manor.

Eaves is a hamlet adjoining Bucknall on the north-east; it was also anciently de Verdon property, but has since been acquired by others; and for about a hundred years the chief estate there, "The Ash," has been owned by the Meigh family.

Bucknall Church is known to have been re-built three times. In 1718 it was re-built according to local tradition from the ruins of the neighbouring Abbey of Hulton. Ward mentions an inscription which was on the walls of the Church in his day. "Ligna lapidis fiunt, Samuel Lea, Curate.—W. Adams, Warden.—1718." It was well built of stone with chancel, nave, and fine square western tower. It had one bell, dated 1609, which was lost about 1854.⁴

In 1856 it was again re-built, and in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch, and an embattled tower on the south side containing six bells.

In 1883 the Rev. S. H. Owen, Rector of Bucknall-cum-Bagnall, gave three stained glass windows, and in 1892 a fine iron chancel screen was added. The church was restored 1887-91.

In 1732 Thomas Pare, of Bucknall, left to " Thomas Allen, of Great Fenton, " John Beech, of Shaw, psh. Kingsley, Stephen Wood, of Ash, Roger Wood, " of Ash, and my nephew William Adams, £50 in hands of William Murhall, of " Bagnall, to pay interest thereof to the School Master of the School lately " built at Bucknall & endowed by Mr. Shalcross"

Mr. William Shalcross and Mr. Stephen Wood left funds for the augmentation of the incumbency of Bucknall in 1714. From Shalcross Pedigrees, page clxi. (by Rev. W. H. Shawcross), there is the following note taken from Ecton's A State of the Bounty of Queen Anne, 1721 :—

" Bucknall, 1714.—Mr. William Shalcross, for augmenting the Chapelry of Bucknall, in the Parish of Stoke, in the County of Stafford, by " a Charge of a yearly Rent of £5."

S. Chad's,⁵ Bagnall, a chapel of ease to Bucknall, is a building of stone in the Gothic style and stands near or actually on the site of a much earlier building which had a belfry of wood. It occurs in Saxton's Map of 1577.

The present church consists of chancel, nave, south porch, vestry, and an embattled western tower containing one bell. There is also a lych gate. It stands high and is beautifully situated. The east window was erected in 1883, and there are others placed there by the late Rector, the Rev. S. H. Owen : one of the windows is of French glass purchased at Amiens. Bagnall is a place of great antiquity and the market cross and an ancient column in the churchyard are probably anterior to the church itself. A large market is said to have been held at Bagnall.

Eyton, p. 229, considers there to be some uncertainty about Bagnall in the Domesday Survey, and that it was probably included in Endon (Leek parish).

In the reign of Henry II. Bagnall belonged to Ives de Pantune, who granted it to Adam de Audley, by whose descendants it was incorporated with the manor of Horton. In 1299 the Abbot of Combermere sued William de Bagenholt for half the Manor of Bagnall.

Walter Chetwynd says that " about ye beginning of Henry iii. I find mention of one Roger de Baggenhall, and 1 Edward i. Wm. de Baggenhall had lands here, which lands his son Robert was certified to hold by ye 10th part of a Knight's fee (14 Edward ii.) of Ralph, Ld. Stafford." ⁶ Members of the Bagnall family (who were at one time Lords of the Manor of Hanley) migrated to Newcastle-under-Lyme and Barlaston, also to Ireland. Sir Nicolas Bagnall, Knight, Marshall of Ireland, who died 1575, was the 2nd son of John Bagnall, of Newcastle-under-Lyme, Mayor of that Borough 1519. But the principal family at Bagnall were the Murhalls; the earliest document we have in which they occur is the inquisition Post-Mortem concerning William Murhall, of Newcastle-under-Lyme and Bucknall (Bagnall), dated at Windsor 19th February, 1253. The family held lands at Shelton as well as Newcastle-under-Lyme.

Merrial Street, Newcastle, is an ancient name and was called after that family.

On the 23rd November, 1598, John Morrall de Bagnald married Jane Colclough (of the Colclough family of Delph House, Cheadle) at Dilhorne. The initials J. M. 1603 on the present Bagnall Hall were probably put there by this John Murhall.⁷ In the 6th year of Charles I. John Murrall, of Bagnall, compounded for Knighthood. William Murhall, of Bagnall, was High Sheriff for Staffordshire in 1606-7, and his successor, Wm. Murhall, of Bagnall, was High Sheriff in 1742. This last named was the Wm. Murhall who is still the subject of traditionary fame for the summary justice he, as a Magistrate of the county, —at the time of the '45—inflicted upon one of the Scottish stragglers who fell into his hands. The punishment was inflicted out of revenge for injuries he received from a detachment of horse which came to Bagnall (their most advanced post) and then retreated to avoid encountering the Duke of Cumberland's army encamped on Stone Field (Ward). This Wm. Murhall was son and heir of Wm. Murhall, of Graley, Staffordshire,⁸ and succeeded to the Bagnall properties. He died in 1762 (buried at Endon) without male issue when most of the entailed properties came to his kinsman, John Murrell, of Moreton Saye Hall, Whitechurch, Salop. His daughter Dorothy married John Adams, of the Brick House, Burslem, at Stoke parish church, 25th August, 1747, and left issue.

There is a note under date 16th July, 1714, in the parish register of St. Peter ad Vincula, Stoke-upon-Trent, that William Murhall, Esquire, promised the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty £200 as soon as the said Governors shall add a further £200 for the perpetual augmentation of the Curacy of Bagnall, which was signed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Allen, Clerk, Samuel Lea [Curate], William Adams [Warden]. This was arranged in 1715.

Besides the initials and date already named as carved upon a stone on Bagnall Hall, there is also yet to be seen J M 1777 probably placed there by John Murrell, of Moreton Saye Hall, Whitechurch.

Walter Chetwynd mentions the house Greenway anciently possessed by a family of that name; a farm now stands upon its site. Erdeswicke also refers to it. According to Ward it, at one time, belonged to Judge Bradshaw the Regicide. It is sometimes called Greenwood (Hall) and goes by either name. In the Will of William Adams, of Bagnall, proved Lichfield, 15th February, 1577-8, the names of Roger Bradshaw, of Greenwood Hall, and William Bagnold, of Bagnal, occur.

The earliest register now extant begins in 1800, when William Adams, of Bagnall (afterwards of Fenton Hall, Stoke-on-Trent), bapt. Bucknall 13 Sept., 1772, the well-known Potter, was warden. There are said to have been older Bagnall registers but many Bagnall entries are entered at Bucknall and Stoke.

Enamel salt glaze ware was first introduced into Staffordshire at Bagnall in 1740 by the Warburtons, the Adamsons, and Daniels.

We have to thank Miss Cecily Janet Adams, of The Little Croft, Wolstanton, for transcribing the registers, and the Rev. G. T. Birch, the Rector, for giving ready access to them.

7 Murhall, Murrell, Morrall, are the usual variants in spelling.
